I think there should be stricter regulations on television programming. As an adult, I find much of what is offered on television appalling and created to service a mainstream 'want' rather than servicing what the mainstream needs. children will continue to degrade and desensitize from much of what is being provided through violence and sexually explicit programming, and act out upon what they think society is telling them as okay behavior.